"Circus Parade" Tactics Denounced in Hauptmann Case

American Bar Committee Flays Both Lawyers and Newspapers

ALL DIGNITY LOST

Los Angeles Report Indicates Sweeping Reform Will Be Sought

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(AP)—Criticism of the conduct of the Bruno Hauptmann trial is confined in a report to be presented Monday to the American Bar association by its committee on co-operation between the press and the bar.

"Leaders of the bar and the news-vending agencies who are sincerely interested in the preservation of American institutions should join forces and consider ways and means of preventing a repetition of such incidents as occurred in the Bruno Hauptmann trial," the resolution said.

They should take steps to minimize the possibility that in the future, other lawyers and publicity seekers may feel that a precedent has been established which can be followed with impunity," the resolution added.

"The committee suggests at this time that it would be improper to comment on whether or not a fair trial was had by Hauptmann. In reference, it has the following to say:

Lawyers Criticized
"If press reports are accurate, the attorneys for the defendant, and the prosecuting attorney as well, took advantage of the situation and by personal interviews given to representatives of the press, and by talks over

Boys Stop Holdup, Two Fatally Shot

One Boy and One Robber Killed, Second Robber Taken, Third Shout

HELENA, Ark.—(AP)—Efforts of two Phillips county farm boys to rescue a Chinese merchant from the tortures of three robbers over the week-end resulted in the fatal wounding of one of them, death for one of the robbers and capture of a second. The third robber, being sought by a posse late today, is believed to have been wounded in the gun fight.

The victim of the bandits' bullets was Earl Alexander, 19, a recent high school graduate, shot in the shoulder and through the head by one of the hold-up men who identified himself as Earl Watts, 45, Tacker farm convict.

Alexander was wounded fatally by Fred Alexander who shot the hold-up man in the abdomen with his shotgun as his brother fell dead beside him.

The man arrested and placed in the Phillips county jail at Helena gave his name as J. T. Davis of near Brinkley.

Deputy Smith said Davis was arrested at Elaine, six miles north of Wash-burn, where the shooting occurred, less than an hour after the gun battle.

Officers refused to name the third man for whom they are searching.

County Sing to Be Held on Saturday

Two-Day Hempstead Convention to Open July 20 at Washington

J. W. Davis, secretary of the Hempstead county singing association, announced Monday that the association would hold a two-day convention starting Saturday, July 20, at Washington.

Singers will meet at 7:30 p. m. for the first session. A picnic luncheon and musical program will be held the following day.

The public is invited, and is urged to bring song books and basket lunches.

Futrell Clarifies Position on Hall State Sales Tax

Denies Rumor Education Department Is Financing Tax Lobby

MUST RAISE FUNDS

Remarks Not Directed to Sales Tax Alone—Opposition Is Subsidizing

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Futrell again stepped into the middle of the sales tax controversy Monday with the charge that his statements on the subject had been misinterpreted in some quarters.

Contained in his declaration was an assertion that he is "reasonably certain that is not a word of truth in the rumor that the State Department of Education is spending state funds on a lobby."

Futrell denied he had said that federal funds would be withdrawn from Arkansas if the sales tax law is killed, but he reiterated that he had stated such aid was withdrawn last year when the state funds dwindled.

The governor said again Monday that he believed the sales tax funds can be used by the State Welfare Department for the aid of the aged and the unemployables without the necessity of calling a special session of the legislature to amend the statute.

Assistant Attorney General Tom Fitzhugh said Monday he would seek information from the United States Attorney General on the classification of federal agencies before issuing an opinion as to which agencies are exempt under the state sales tax act.

The attorney general has held that orders for food issued to unemployables are not subject to the tax.

ERA Orders Exempt
The following notice was distributed to Hope merchants over the week-end by B. C. Shipp, disbursing officer of the Emergency Relief Administration for Hempstead county:

"You are advised that all purchases by disbursing orders for commodities (food, clothing, etc.) for direct relief clients, and for supplies, etc., for use by the ERA, are exempt from the state sales tax.

"Within the near future we will supply you with tax exemption form AD 53. On this form you will enter the numbers of the disbursing orders, name of client or clients, amount of purchases, including non-taxable and taxable items thereon. The said certificates will then be presented by you for the disbursing officer's signature at the same time the disbursing orders are presented for payment.

"This form will be signed by the disbursing officer and given to you to tender to the commissioner of revenues of the State of Arkansas in lieu of the tax. The certificate will exempt you from liability for the sales tax on the ERA through issue of commodities to clients, and ERA supplies through disbursing orders.

Controversy Dying
LITTLE ROCK.—The controversy over proposed repeal of the state 2 per cent sales tax continued in a desultory manner over the week-end, with the attorney general's office, with representatives of the Revenue Department and federal agencies present to determine the status of food orders to be paid for by the Emergency Relief Administration.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas Fitzhugh indicated that he will hold that all foods and other articles purchased by direct relief clients and paid for by a federal agency, without the money having passed through the hands of the relief client, are exempt from the sales tax.

Legislators Favor Amendments
Representative I. N. Moore of Desha county at a conference of office and field representatives of the state Welfare Commission, at the capital, said he would like to see the law amended to remove the exemptions that have made the act so burdensome to merchants. However, he said that he would not vote for repeal until convinced that a majority of the citizens of his county want it repealed. He said he did not believe a majority ever will petition him to vote for repeal. He expressed belief that repeal would stop all kinds of federal aid and make it impossible for the aged and unemployables to share in the federal relief program.

Representatives Hendrix, Rowell of Fine Bluff, an opponent of the sales tax during the legislative session, said that he is taking no part in current agitation over the law. He said he was willing to see it get a fair trial, that he had no substitute to offer, and that he was opposed to establishing a precedent of obtaining pledges from legislators that they would vote for or against any type of legislation.

Film Star Sued for Dog's 'Play'

"Twas all in play, but it was expensive, play when 'Cappy,' Jeanette MacDonald's 100-pound English sheep dog, shown here with his mistress, frolicked in the Hollywood home which the movie songstress rented from Corinne Griffith, another film headliner. Mob Gathers Following Arrest for Attempted Criminal Attack

COLUMBUS, Miss.—(AP)—Two young negro farmers, Bert Moore and Dooley Morton, were lynched near here Monday by a mob of angry white citizens who wrested the prisoners from officers and hanged them to a giant oak tree.

The negroes were arrested Sunday for two alleged attempted attacks on a white woman, the wife of an Arkansas lumberman.

Macedonia Plans to Build Church

Special Building Meeting Called for 3:30 p. m. Sunday, July 21

A special meeting has been called for 3:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, July 21, at the old Macedonia cemetery, eight miles south of Hope, to discuss building a new church near the cemetery.

The neighborhood owns two acres of ground located in a pleasant grove ideally suited to a church building, according to Committee member Hamlet Middlebrooks and Tunstall, who authorized the special meeting call.

"Everybody is invited to this meeting," the announcement said. "Especially do we want the whole neighborhood to come out. There will be three or four speakers, with a chance for everyone to be heard from."

Drastic Taxes and Tariff Action Rise to Plague F. D. R.

General Sales Tax Proposal Persists in Congress Debate

ASK ADJOURNMENT

Many Leaders, Worn by Long Struggle, Would 'Call It Off'

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Legislators predicted Monday that vigorous attempts would be made soon to write into President Roosevelt's new tax plan several proposals unwanted by the White House.

Drives for a general sales tax, tariffs, and the repeal of the present "nuisance" levies are mentioned as some of the things the president's supporters must fight before they get their tax program out of the house ways and means committee.

The senate continued carving the AAA amendment bill Monday by knocking out poultry, package bees and queen bees from the commodities subject to marketing control by the Secretary of Agriculture.

This action came after Chairman Smith of the senate agriculture committee, sponsor of the bill on the floor, had upbraided committee members for failing last week to defend some of the committee amendments.

The Works Allotment Board Monday postponed its scheduled meeting until Tuesday when it is expected to take up approximately 300 Arkansas works proposals.

High officials said Monday that elaborate plans prepared by the National Resources Board, on which President Roosevelt originally based his 4-billion-dollar work-relief program, have been abandoned so far as the present drive for jobs is concerned.

Lack of money, and the need for speed, are given as the chief reasons.

Adjournment Is Aim

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A congress beset by taxes, lobby inquiries and legislation turned a hopeful ear toward New Deal week-enders at Jefferson Island, Md., for any word of early adjournment plans.

How soon quitting time will come is a subject uppermost in Capitol Hill thoughts. Many senators are outspoken in their belief that congress should go home. Nor is there any question in their minds that methods of quickening the progress of the administration program, were discussed by leaders with President Roosevelt at the Jefferson Island retreat in Chesapeake bay.

Yet, so many are the complicating factors surrounding adjournment that few members hold much hope for getting away from the capital before the end of August. These members said there was little likelihood that the president would shorten appreciably the legislative session he has sent congress.

Tax Bill Opposition Grows
High on the list is the tax bill, against which controversy is massing freshened by strong protests from business.

Scarcely less prominent are the contested amendments to the farm adjustment law, the embroiled utility holding company bill and the new banking measure.

The farm bill is weaving its way slowly through a prickly senate debate. The utility bill is in the hands of a conference committee of senators and representatives who are seeking to adjust differences between the two houses. Primarily, the issue is between the senate's abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies and the house's regulation plan.

Another tightly pressed dispute is in the hands of another conference committee. So fervent have become the arguments for and against a senate amendment to the social security bill to exempt the pension systems of private concerns from the operations of the measure that there are suggestions it may have to be taken to President Roosevelt for settlement.

The revised administration banking bill with its centralization of credit control is ready for senate consideration after action on the AAA amendments, expected Monday.

Italy Mobilizes New Army Division

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—With war between Italy and Ethiopia increasingly regarded as inevitable, Premier Mussolini ordered the mobilization Monday of another regular army division and the creation of an additional division of the Blackshirt militia.

It also ordered immediate construction of 10 new submarines.

Tennessee, Facing Demand for 11-2 Million, Calls Legislature

Sales Tax Rejected During Spring Session—Now It Will Take Drastic New Taxation to Balance Expenditures

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Tennessee's legislature meets in extra session Monday for another attempt to lift the state out of the "red."

A 75-day effort during the regular session failed when the legislators turned down two administration pleas for a general sales tax and also recommended amendments to a joint committee of the General Assembly after a five-week survey of finances.

Gov. Hill McAlister is said to have abandoned his sales tax idea and in his message is expected to recommend a franchise tax on capital invested. In this he will have support of the powerful Shelby county (Memphis) delegation, which refused to go along with him on the sales tax.

The franchise tax would be a levy of between $1 and $150 on each $1,000 of invested capital. Its proponents believe a rate between those figures would produce around $1,700,000 a year. If this is passed then the plan is to repeal the corporation excise tax of 3 per cent on net earnings from business done wholly within the state.

After a study of a governmental audit, just completed, it has been figured in some administration quarters that the budget can be balanced with an additional $1,500,000 of annual revenue, which they estimate the franchise tax would produce after allowing for repeal of the corporation excise tax. Tightening up of some existing tax laws might result in a surplus, they believe.

The state has a deficit of something in excess of $1,500,000. To fund that and keep the state on a cash basis the auditors reported it would be necessary to borrow approximately $2,600,000 because more than $1,000,000 of the state's assets is tied up in uncollected taxes, unpaid amounts due from counties and the like. Governor McAlister has asked authority to borrow that amount.

In his call for the extra session the governor omitted authority for the legislature to consider legalization of liquor. However, Representative Robert Brown of Hickman county said he planned to introduce a bill calling for a statewide referendum on the question October 10, simultaneously with a referendum on holding a constitutional convention.

Housing Project Is Rebuffed in Court
U. S. Forbidden to Condemn Land for Private Dwellings, Is Decision

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—(AP)—The sixth district United States Circuit Court of Appeals held Monday that the federal government has no power to condemn land for use in public housing projects.

The court sustained a decision which held such condemnation illegal since it failed to come within the government's power to condemn areas for public buildings, parks, fortification, and arsenals.

Secretary Ickes has said that the suit affects the 166-million-dollar housing program in 40 cities.

Officer Garner Is Wounded by Negro

Willie Neal Sought for Shooting at Radical Hill Dance

Will Garner, member of Hope Fire Department, was recovering Monday from a pistol wound, inflicted Saturday night at a negro dance on Radical Hill.

Garner was shot in the right thigh by Willie Neal, negro bad man, who escaped in the darkness. Neal was sought by Hempstead officers.

Garner was on guard at the dance when a disturbance broke out. When he attempted to quell the trouble between Neal and another negro, Neal jerked Garner's pistol away from him and shot once. The bullet entered Garner's thigh.

Neal fled from the dance hall, emptying the remaining shots into the air in flight. The negro is still believed to be in possession of the gun.

Garner was taken to Josephine hospital where the wound was treated. He was removed to his home Sunday afternoon in a Hope Furniture company ambulance.

The pistol wound was described as painful, but not serious.

Runaway Outboard Kills Its Driver

Boat Throws 2 Into Water—Keeps Them Busy Dodging Wild Flight

FAIRVIEW BEACH, Va.—(AP)—A runaway speedboat killed one man here Sunday and injured seriously another after both had been thrown from the bucking craft into the Potomac river.

Ruffner Hill, 23, of Michell's, Va., was struck on the head and drowned and Roy Taylor, 22, of Culpepper Va., received a six-inch gash in his shoulder after they had been dumped from the boat. Its outboard motor wide open in a high-pitched whine, the two men dived repeatedly in attempts to dodge it. Hill drowned in the attempt, but Taylor, a strong swimmer, was able to dodge the boat for several minutes.

After many dives he rose directly in the path of the boat which passed over him. As it did the whirling propeller struck his shoulder, slashing it open. The shock threw the binged propeller shaft out of water and the boat drifted to a stop.

Pleads Guilty to Eason Holdup; Gets 21 Years in Prison

Brother and Cousin Released—But Hall Woman Remains in Jail

SHE IS IMPLICATED

Douglas Names Her in Confession—Eason Reported Recovering

Ernest Douglas, negro, was on his way to the penitentiary Monday to serve 21 years for the brutal attack and robbery of S. D. Eason, night watchman at the Union Compress & Warehouse company, which occurred late Friday night.

Arraigned on a waiver indictment Monday morning before Judge Dexter, 24th at Washington, the negro pleaded guilty to charges of assault and robbery. He was given 15 years for robbery and six years for assault.

Sheriff Jim Bearden led immediately with Douglas for the penitentiary. Sheriff Bearden announced the release of Calvin Douglas, a brother of Ernest, and Earl Horn, a cousin, who were arrested as suspects.

Negro Woman Held
Jewell Hall, negro woman with whom Ernest boarded and the second person arrested in the case, was still held in jail. Sheriff Bearden said that charges would probably be filed against her.

Physicians attending Mr. Eason at Julia Chester hospital reported Monday that his condition was improved considerably and expressed belief he would recover.

The negro Douglas confessed to Sheriff Bearden late Saturday night that he alone attacked and robbed the 60-year-old night watchman at the compress. Douglas previously had involved Earl Horn, a cousin.

Douglas first said that Horn was responsible for the assault. An investigation by officers revealed that Horn was out of town at the time.

Prisoner Confesses
Confronted with this information, the negro Douglas cracked under grilling and confessed. Sheriff Bearden quoted the negro as saying that the robbery and assault upon Eason had been planned for more than a week, and that the Hall woman had knowledge of the plot.

Douglas was employed as a flag man at the Compress.

Whether the Hall woman actually participated in carrying out the plans, Sheriff Bearden declined to say. "I'm waiting further developments from that standpoint," the officer said.

2 Prescott Men Hurt in Accident

Albert Cross, 60; Walter Cross, 22, Overturn Near Idabel, Okla.

IDABEL, Okla.—(AP)—Albert Cross, 60, and Walter Cross, 22, both of Prescott, Ark., were seriously injured Sunday in the overturning of their car which struck loose gravel on a curve near here.

Albert Cross incurred a fracture of the skull and his right leg was broken. Dr. W. A. Moreland said his death was imminent. Walter Cross was less seriously hurt although he was knocked unconscious.

Both injured men were taken to Prescott in an ambulance.

Markets

Cotton
NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—First cotton here were 4 to 10 points higher Monday as the cotton market began its new week.

There was little in the news to explain the firm opening, but light buy-orders entered the market and brought about small advances from the previous close.

July was six points higher at 11.97, October was up a similar amount at 11.65, while January jumped 50 cents a bale to 11.65.

Liverpool reported that favorable weather was acting in the interests of the bears, but on the other hand uncertainty over the loan and the tightness of contracts were restricting offerings.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, one to four points higher on trade and spot house buying with offers light. July 12.01; October 11.58; December 11.66; January 11.65; March 11.65; May 11.70.

There was some local selling of later months but offerings were absorbed in a narrow range and the market was steady at the end of the first hour with prices showing net gains of about 10 to 15 points. October contracts, after casing off from 11.68 to 11.66, rallied to 11.71. The early Liverpool cables reported a dull market.

YOUR HEALTH

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the French Magazine

Bathe in Sun and Sea, But Be Careful.

As good as sun bathing and sea bathing may be for you, they can also do considerable harm, if they are not taken with the caution that is necessary for health.

Sun bathing provides the skin with light, heat and ultraviolet rays. It also submits the skin to the motion of open air. Sea bathing adds the stimulus of sea waves.

But you must begin to use these gradually. It is not safe to plunge into the water immediately on arriving at the seashore and then to sit for hours in the sun.

Children who are under normal in health and people who are convalescing from disease must become gradually accustomed to the altered conditions at the seashore before they are permitted to bathe in the sea, sit in the sun or even to paddle about near the shore.

There is some reason to believe that salt water produces more reaction on the skin than ordinary water. Cold water is a stimulant.

People, who are in excellent health, after plunging in the sea are likely to have a favorable reaction. For those who are not in good health, bathing in the sea at the usual temperature of the water may produce some shock and a too rapid cooling of the body, with a resultant strain on the nervous system and the circulation of the blood.

A sun bath after bathing in the sea is often helpful to health, but there are certain conditions to be observed. The exposure should be gradual at first.

Sun bathing in a wet bathing suit is not free from danger. Delicate children and grown-ups in less than normal health should be sheltered immediately after bathing in the sea and preferably provided with a hot drink and a hot foot bath.

People react to sunshine in different ways. What is beneficial to one may be harmful for another. You should remember that the sunshine at the seashore is more brilliant and intense than in the city where clouds and smoke may tend to modify its strength.

It is also good to show that blonds are more susceptible to the sun than are brunets.

Overexposure to sunlight yields varying degrees of sunburn. There may be an actual lowering of the resistance of the body after too much sun bathing, instead of the increased resistance following sun bathing that is properly administered.

With the right control of conditions, sea bathing and suitable sunshine thereafter should lead to an improvement of appetite and digestion, a feeling of well-being and cheerfulness, and an increase in the body's tone. Usually also there is a benefit to sleep so that one rests much better after a sea bath and sunshine than before.

Followed Coronado Into the Wild West—Forgotten Spanish Ventures of Long Ago Recalled

It was in 1541 that Coronado led his touch Spanish fighting men off on one of the most magnificent wild goose chases in history—the quest for the gold-plated seven cities of Cibola. He found no cities, but he did cover a lot of territory, and he wound up somewhere in Kansas.

This expedition is known to every schoolboy. What most of us do not realize is that it stimulated the exploring instinct in Spanish authorities in Mexico, so that many other expeditions were sent up through the great plains in succeeding years and the Spanish flag ultimately was carried clear up into Nebraska.

These expeditions are described in "After Coronado," by Alfred B. Thomas. The book quotes liberally from ancient Spanish documents, and is perhaps a little hard for the ordinary reader to get through; but it does present an interesting picture of an immense job of exploration which most of us never so much as heard of.

Mr. Thomas makes it clear that it

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARLEN, slinking his feet year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo gets a job as bookkeeper in a small machine supply house. She is engaged to BRETT PAUL, athletic star. DOUGLAS MARSH, handsome, wealthy, comes to the store to buy equipment for the summer colony he is establishing at Crest Lake. Jo works overtime, assisting with the order, and Marsh asks her to have dinner with him. She agrees. When Brett telephones Jo to tell her he has extra work to do that night.

Marsh takes her to a fashionable restaurant. He tells her about his summer colony at Crest Lake and offers Jo the job of hostess there. Scarcely able to believe such good luck, she accepts.

Dining with Marsh, Jo sees BABS MONTGOMERY, a school acquaintance. Jo is sure Babs will tell Brett about seeing Jo with Marsh.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

WHEN Douglas Marsh's car had been brought to the curb of the Olympic Bowl and he and Jo had stepped inside, Marsh asked, "Would you like to ride around a bit before I take you back to the apartment?"

"It's a heavenly night for it," Jo admitted. "But—the truth is, I'm just a little tired. I think it's from the shock of being appointed the hostess at Crest Lake Inn. I know I won't believe it when I wake up in the morning!"

"In that case I'll telephone just to reassure you. Say about 9?" Jo nodded. "I'm afraid I'll need the reassurance, Mr. Marsh."

They were soon before the Pendleton, and Marsh hopped from the roadster to see Jo to the door. "Really," Jo said, "I can't thank you enough for a delightful evening—and for the opportunity at Crest Lake."

"I didn't mean to make a business conference of it," Marsh laughed. "But I'm leaving for the lake tomorrow afternoon and I thought I'd better arrange everything tonight. Do you suppose you could come down day after tomorrow?"

"I think so."

"I'll see that your ticket is delivered to the apartment by tomorrow afternoon. And I'll make arrangements at Lytzen's for things to be charged to Crest Lake Inn. If they don't have just what you want I'm sure they'll get it for you." He held out his hand. "Good night, Miss Darlen—but couldn't I call you Janet?"

"Janet?"

"Isn't that it?" he laughed. "I noticed the initials 'J. D.' on your hand bag at Brown's this morning, and I'm just guessing. Suppose you give me the right name?"

"It's Jo."

He smiled. "I like that . . . Jo." Once again he took her hand for the fraction of a moment. "Good night, Jo. I'll see you at Crest Lake day after tomorrow."

"Right," said Jo. "Good night."

NEXT morning she awoke with the first pink streaks of dawn, and lay abed reviewing the events of last night. Wide awake, she looked at her wrist. It was hardly 5 o'clock.

"Four hours until he telephones," she told herself. "And I actually won't be able to believe it until he does telephone."

But Jo Darlen was too young and alive not to believe that good fortune is always a possibility. After a delicious stretch between the covers she leaped from bed and took a quick shower. Then, stepping into her mules and throwing a robe around her slenderness, she sat down to write her mother and father. She knew that they would find it hard to understand just what had happened, so her letter to them was lengthy and involved, telling them the story from the time she had started to work for Brown until she heard the offer of still another position from the astonishing Douglas Marsh.

"He's really a very charming person," Jo wrote her mother, "and just because I know you're always worrying I want to tell you that Mrs. Marsh, his mother, is at Crest Lake. They say she's rather a formidable person, so I doubt if there's much chance of my having an affair with a millionaire, even if I wanted to!"

Jo thought it best not to mention the matter of the new clothes. That would be a little difficult to explain to Mrs. Arthur L. Darlen, who had very definite ideas about such things.

She had just finished addressing the envelope when the telephone rang. It was just seven—two hours before Marsh had promised to call—and Jo wondered who could be telephoning her at this hour.

His Career

Nurse—"It's a boy!"

Confirmed Golfer—"Hurray! A card!"—London Opinion.

It was Tubby; and just a bit excited.

"What's this story I hear about your being at the Olympic Bowl last night with Douglas Marsh?"

"Well," Jo laughed, "it's true. You certainly get your news fast, Tubby."

"A bunch of us were in the University Inn last night when Babs Montgomery and Stanley Phillips came in from the Olympic Bowl. Babs was announcing it here and there in loud tones. She probably thought it would get to Brett eventually."

"It will, eventually," Jo said. "In fact, I'm going to tell him about it tonight. It was strictly business. I'm going to work for Douglas Marsh."

Tubby's gasp was audible over the wire. "What do you mean?"

Jo told her ex-roommate the whole story, and when she had finished Tubby could only exclaim, "Well, all I can say is that you must have four-leaf clovers embrodered on your scanties. I never heard of such luck!"

"Nor I," Jo confessed. "You'll have to spend a week at Crest Lake this summer, Tubby."

"I'll try my best. I finally got everything packed, and I'm taking the afternoon train for home," Tubby told her.

Jo repeated the receiver after Tubby's reiterated promise that she would try to plan at least a few days at Crest Lake. It would be fun to have Tubby there for a while, Jo told herself. She was likely to get lonely with so many strangers about—all friends of Marsh, and therefore people with a lot of money, no doubt.

She'd really need some decent things to wear. Marsh had been right about that, and it would be part of her job to see herself well dressed. A day at Lytzen's would be like a dream come true, for it was the most expensive and exclusive establishment in the city. All Jo had ever bought there was a pair of gloves—and today she was going to order a complete summer wardrobe!

She looked at her watch again. Seven-thirty. She'd have time to dress and go out for breakfast before Marsh telephoned. To her faint discomfort she found herself looking forward to the sound of his pleasant voice. She wondered idly if already she were attracted by him, like any silly school girl; and then, facing herself suddenly to the mirror, she denied this self-doubt hotly.

This morning she found a new and somewhat expensive restaurant for breakfast, treating herself to orange juice, cold and sweet; to thin slices of toast with marmalade; and then an omelet as light as a feather—topping it all with the best coffee she had tasted in ages. When she received her check without dismay Jo could not help but be amused by the sudden difference in her attitude. Yesterday she had been thinking frugally, while this morning she had deliberately sought the most expensive-looking restaurant in the neighborhood of the Pendleton.

SUDDENLY she thought: "Wouldn't it be terrible if I went back to the apartment and found a message from Douglas Marsh saying the whole thing was off?"

But when she reached the door of her apartment the telephone was ringing frantically. A little breathless, Jo answered it.

"Good morning!" Marsh said. "I was afraid for a moment that you'd run away from your new job—and me."

"Oh, no," Jo laughed. "I've just come in from breakfast."

"Well, I'm telephoning to tell you that it's still all perfectly true. It wasn't the muscle and it wasn't the cockle. I'm sending over your ticket to Crest Lake this afternoon. And they're expecting you at Lytzen's."

"I'll be there," said Jo gayly. And then, as a pang of conscience struck her: "Oh, and Mr. Brown. Did you tell him?"

"I'm telephoning from there now. Everything's fixed. He thinks I've picked a splendid addition to Crest Lake."

"Please let me talk to him," Jo said. When she heard Brown's gruff voice on the wire she went on, "I hope you're not angry with me, Mr. Brown, but you see—"

"Sure," he interrupted her. "It's all right. I'm mighty glad you got a good job. I guess I owe you a morning's wages, too."

"You don't owe me anything," Jo assured him. "If I hadn't been in your office yesterday morning I'd never have had this chance. . . . Goodbye, and good luck."

She turned from the telephone and walked to her window, looked down at the hurrying crowds below. For one dreadful moment she could not believe that this had happened to her, out of all the young women down there who wanted it to happen to them. If only Bret—

But Bret would be at Placid Beach.

Jo lifted her eyes and saw, peering over the roof tops, the huge sign which crowned Lytzen's. (To Be Continued)

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Take Vacation From Primping

Hair styles that you can sleek back and forget about after each swim or those that can be swirled into place and finished with a soft, home-made curl here and there are ideal for active women and for girls who hate to spend hot summer afternoons under a drying machine. Besides, since they have a casual air about them, they tend to make you look cooler.

If your hair is bobbed, it's an excellent idea to have it cut even shorter, get a rather tight permanent and then wear ringlets that go in for specific direction. You need to spend practically no time at all arranging this young schoolboy type of coiffure and, providing your features are rather regular, you'll find it youthful and becoming.

If you must wear your hair in a more feminine fashion, get a permanent only on the ends, leave the top plain and make soft, curled-around-the-finger ringlets on the sides, across the back and perhaps on one side of the forehead. Naturally curly locks are easier to manage, of course, and are pretty when swept backward from the brow and over the ears, and allowed to blow free across the back of the neck.

Remember that cleanliness is one of the first requisites of any becoming coiffure. Frequent shampooing not only gives your tresses a glossy sheen but makes them easier to manage. If you expect to vacation in some remote spot where hot water is at a premium, take along a large bottle of one of the very effective soapless shampoos. They aren't expensive, are applied in the same manner as soapy varieties and can be rinsed out easily. If worse comes to worse, you can use one on the bank of a stream.

About Ben Adham (may his tribe increase!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom,
An angel, writing in a book of gold:
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adham bold:
And to the presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The vision raised its head,
And, with a look made of all sweet accord,
Answer'd, "The names of those who love the Lord."
"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay not so."
Replied the angel, Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, "I pray thee, then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow-men."
The angel wrote and vanish'd. The next night
It came again, with a great wakening light,
And showed the names whom love of God had bless'd;
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest.—Selected.

the radio, seemed wholly to disregard all the accepted rules of dignity and ethics with which the profession and the courts have sought to surround "the trial of a man for his life."
"Feeling that substantial results cannot be accomplished by legislation, the committee urges that a committee be established on the relations between the press and bar, consisting of a small number of lawyers of outstanding ability, and representatives of the Associated Press, the International News Service, and the United Press, together with a group of representatives of the National and Columbia Broadcasting Companies to make a nationwide survey of conditions surrounding the publicity given to criminal trials."
"The committee recommends that such a conference devise ways and means for carrying on this type of publicity, so that all trials of criminal cases be conducted only before the judges and juries of the court in a manner conforming to recognized standards of judicial dignity and deportment."
No Criticism of Press
"The committee emphasizes that it is not indulging in the criticism of the press. The committee believes, however, that to treat a simple trial as a public show, as was done in the sensational criminal trial of Bruno Hauptmann, is to cheapen life itself by causing people generally to undervalue the life of the criminal and to increase the morbid desires of sensation seekers. A miscarriage of justice either through excesses of sentiment or by an aroused mob desire for vengeance, serves either to decrease the confidence of our people in the ability or the willingness of our courts to punish wrongdoers, or to produce a general belief that the defendant is the victim of persecution."
Signing the report were Giles J. Patterson, Jacksonville, Fla., chairman; Joseph D. Barksdale, Shreveport, La.; Julius H. Cohen, New York city; John M. Dunham, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Millsaps Fitzhugh, Memphis, Tenn.; W. O. Huggins, Houston, Texas, and Thomas S. Rice, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chevrolet's June Sales Close to 1929

1935 Has Already Produced Three 100,000-Car Months

DETROIT, Mich. — Chevrolet sales and production in June were the largest for that month since 1929. W. E. Holler vice president and general sales manager, has reported. Sales in the United States totalled 97,862 units. Total production, including Canada and export, was 122,300.

"These figures," Mr. Holler announced, "not only surpass the sales and production totals for any other June since 1929, but with a single exception exceed the highest totals for any month in years."

"For the third time this year, June gave us a monthly production in excess of 100,000, the other two months being March and April. In no other year since 1929 has even an entire year had three 100,000-car months such as this year already has at the half way mark."

"As we enter the second half of the year, we have already built more than 60 per cent as many cars as we produced in all twelve months of 1934—a year in which Chevrolet started the industry by registering more cars in the last six months than in the first half."

"Sales of the Master de luxe models in June greatly exceeded Standard model sales. However, the lower priced Standard models, improved this year with the addition of the Master blue flame engine, is a tremendous success. To date, 1935 Standard sales show an increase of 107,727 units over the same period last year."

Basket Co. Team Defeats Nashville

Russell Pitches Locals to 10-3 Victory Here Sunday Afternoon

Hope Basket company baseball team hit consistently behind the pitching of Russell for a 10-to-3 victory over Nashville Sunday at Fair Park.
The victory evened a two-game series between the two teams.
Elliott, playing left field, and Johnson at firstbase, led the Hope attack. Johnson cracked out a three bagger for the longest hit of the game.
The Hope team opened with a four-run attack in the first inning. Hope scored one in the fourth, two in the fifth inning and three in the sixth inning.
Russell held the visitors scoreless until the eighth inning when they got to him for three runs.
The basket company team will play at DeQueen next Sunday afternoon.

back" to the counties.
The executive committee of the association, meeting here Saturday, decided to petition the governor to include legislation "to restore the half-cent per gallon tax to the counties, now that the refunding program is completed." Judge R. M. Ruthven of Baxter county, said.

Two other measures the county judges would like to have included in a call for a special session are:
Legislation providing for the sale of delinquent farm lands to counties instead of the state.

Estate control and financing of county farm agents, which many of the counties, according to Judge Ruthven, cannot afford to pay but dare not drop because of "punishment" in the form of withdrawal or limitation of federal relief aid.

"The increased 'turnback' is needed more than ever now, Judge Ruthven, chairman of the executive committee, said, because the counties will be required under the Works Program Administration to furnish materials and administrative costs on projects they may sponsor.

A conference with W. R. Dyess, administrator of the WPA in Arkansas, on co-operation of county officers with the WPA in working out suitable projects, was postponed because of the absence of Mr. Dyess from the city.

which today is only a fraction of the tax collected by the federal government.

We need this taxation. We need it to take old persons of pensionable age off the direct-relief rolls, bringing order out of chaos to that extent. The remainder of the unemployed would then get as much or as little public relief as deserved in a state of Arkansas' financial ability to pay.

This is the long road ahead of us. It is the orderly way—as opposed to the way of present chaos.

And at stake are all our institutions of local government—local problems met by local officials spending local tax funds.

You may prefer to have these matters determined in each congressional election. You may be willing to tell your troubles to a distant national capital—and consent to payments transmitted through a hundred bureaus over the 1,200 miles between here and Washington, D. C.

But if you do, when you wake up you will find you have tossed away your ancient liberties, you will have junked your right as citizens to enforce your views upon local officials, you are able to reach and control—for no other reason than because you tried to dodge trouble which in the end could not possibly be dodged.

Memphis Player Sets New Hope Course Record With One Under Par

Back White, young Memphis professional golf player, hung up a new record at the 13-year-old golf course here Sunday by shooting a 32, one under par for the 9-hole course.

White scored birdies on the No. 1, 4 and 8th holes. One of his most accurate drives was on the 8th hole when he drove the ball to within three feet of the cup on the first stroke.

The course has been parred several times, but White holds the distinction of the only person to break par on the Hope course.

White will resume teaching golf this week at the Hope course. Any person interested in taking lessons may get in touch with him at the course or through Coach Foy Hammons.

Negro Bouts to Be Held Here Monday

Battling Siki of Hope, and Kid Caspirana of Pine Bluff, will meet in an eight-round feature boxing match at Yerger Athletic park at 8:30 p. m. Monday.

The boxing match was scheduled for last Friday night, but was postponed because of rain.

A battle royal between four Hope negroes will open the program, followed by a four-round match between two local boys.

A six-round semi-final bout will be fought between Kid Bushy of El-Goradio and Battling Mitchell of Prescott. These boxing matches are the first of a series here sponsored by the Yerger Athletic association.

Forestry Commission Exhibit at Porterfield Realty Office

A miniature forestry tower site, in the form of an electric window sign, has been put on display here by District Forest Ranger John F. Glass.

The attractive and interesting exhibition may be seen in the window of Porterfield's real estate office.

The miniature tower site, constructed by David Campbell of Little Rock, is an exact reproduction of the tower No. 1 in Unit 7, located on Highway 61, near Little Rock.

It is made to actual scale and is similar to all the tower sites created in the state by the Forestry Commission. Besides the tower itself, all the buildings and grounds on the site are reproduced. Each building and house is shown exactly as it is at each of the 33 towers over the state. The grounds, with grass, trees and shrubbery are also shown in their proper places making a unique and interesting display.

The background of the display is an actual photograph of the trees taken from the top of the original tower. The display while here will be lighted at night and Mr. Glass urges that all Hope citizens see this exhibition. This is the fourth city in which it has been shown, and it will be moved to some other place at a later date.

The State Forestry Service to date has erected some 38 of these tower sites protecting some 5,000,000 acres of timber land. Approximately 2,000 miles of telephone lines have been erected connecting the towers and houses of the Forestry Service employees. The tower site shown in the display is similar to the one that will be built south of Hope, and one that will be constructed near Laneburg.
